Plans Taking Shape for a June 16 County-Wide Conference focusing on Digitization and other Preservation Issues

Mark your calendars for Saturday, June 16! The Hancock County Genealogical Society will be sponsoring a county-wide conference focusing on the digitization and preservation of all types of records held in our various repositories. This would include town records, church records, school records, family records, museum records, meeting minutes, personal diaries, photographs, newspaper articles, in short, any and all records that preserve the history of our lives and activities in this county.

There will be two keynote speakers for this conference. The morning speaker will be Adam C. Fisher, Director of Collections Development and Digital Initiatives at the Maine State Library. Adam has already made a number of visits to historical societies in Hancock County and has been in recent contact with the Ellsworth American about the possibility of getting the newspaper's entire collection digitized. Our afternoon speaker will be B. J. Jamieson of the Maine Genealogical Society. BJ will be speaking about the need for transcription work in conjunction with digitization so that our records can be searchable.

The conference will be held on Saturday, June 16, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the General Bryant E. Moore Community Center, 125 State Street, Ellsworth, Maine 04605. The tentative schedule follows:

9:00 - 9:30 - Registration, coffee, donuts
9:30 - 10:30 - Morning Keynote address - Adam C. Fisher, Maine State Library
10:45 - 11:45 - Two breakout sessions, presenters TBA
11:45 - 1:15 - Lunch
1:15 - 2:15 - Two breakout sessions, presenters TBA
2:30 - 3:30 - Afternoon Keynote address - B. J. Jamieson, MGS Board member

Registration forms for the conference will be sent out soon. We will be inviting all historical societies, libraries, museums, and other organizations that are working to preserve the history of Hancock County. We hope to see you there!

For those times when there's nothing good on TV.

When there's just nothing worth watching on TV, just go over to your computer, go to youtube.com, and in the search box type in "who do you think you are" or "finding your roots" or "long lost family" or even "genealogy roadshow". OK, I'm a genealogy junkie, but these programs are a lot more interesting to me than most everything else on TV. Just sayin'.....

Hancock County Genealogical Society
Minutes - 10 March 2018

The Hancock County Genealogical Society met on Saturday March 10, 2018 at the Ellsworth Public Library with 22 members and guests present.

Mary Gibouleau presented an extremely interesting program "Finding Rose" about her search for a young orphan girl from England who was lost in the system to her brother. His dying request was to find out what happened to his little sister. Mary and her friend in England followed Rose's trail to Canada and then to a living daughter and granddaughter in California.

Following the presentation, President Ralph Harris called the meeting to order. Minutes from the January and February meetings were read and approved. The treasurer did not have a final report as he was lacking the monthly statement for February.

Updates were given on the Eastern Maine DIG group, the June conference, new Facebook members and from the Library. Membership stands as 34 who have either renewed or are new members.

Under new business, Ralph updated us on MGS and the workshop in April. Proposed changes to the by-laws were discussed and approved. Woodlawn Museum (The Black House) is looking for a person to do a workshop on basic genealogy this summer.

Upcoming speakers and events for both HCGS and MGS were discussed. An in depth discussion of the June conference was held with times, locations and speakers discussed.

The meeting adjourned at 12:29 pm.

Respectfully submitted,
Charlene Fox Clemons, Secretary

UPCOMING PROGRAMS:

April 14: Wayne Smith will make a presentation on the research that he carried out in the late 1980s while he was searching for information about his immigrant ancestor Francisco Manoel Gaspar who came from the Azores and settled in Surry around 1816. His search involved crawling around in the old district archives located in the tiny "city" of Horta on the island of Faial, learning how to decipher ancient Portuguese handwriting, learning about the confusing naming patterns used at the time, and eventually meeting actual cousins still living in the Azores.

May 12: Swap & Share: We'll be meeting on the third floor in the Whitmore Collection and will spend the time sharing information and comparing notes on our own research.

June 9: At our regular meeting this month, we'll be putting the finishing touches on the following Saturday's conference at the Moore Center in Ellsworth. Please come and share your ideas.

June 16 - Hancock County Genealogical Society will host a gathering of representatives of the many genealogical and historical societies, libraries, and museums in Hancock County. The conference will be held at the Moore Center on State Street in Ellsworth. Registrations forms will be available from Wayne Smith at: wayne@mrlanguage.com.

Eastern Maine DIG (DNA Interest Group)

DNA for genealogy? What test should I take? Which company should I test with? What do the results mean?

Beginning this year, the Ellsworth Public Library is sponsoring the Eastern Maine DIG (DNA Interest Group). Meetings will be held on the fourth Saturday of each month from 10 a.m. until noon in the Riverview Room and are free and open to anyone interested in DNA testing and research. There are no dues or officers, just a group of like-minded people sharing their DNA questions and experiences. Bring you successes, failures and questions to share with the group.

If you are on Facebook, join the MaineDIG Facebook Group for all the latest information on meetings and new developments.

Need Help in Identifying a WWI Soldier

"We found this old photo which is on the back of a postcard with French titles. It says "Hello from your cousin, Horace H." We do not have a Horace H. who served in WWI in Sullivan or Sorrento. As it is in our collection, we think he could be from one of the towns in the area. Thought it might be something to post in the Newsletter."

We are doing a pretty good job of collecting copies of our missing Hancock Historians. We are now only missing copies of the following editions. If you happen to have any of them, we'd love to borrow them to make copies and put them on our website: hancockgenealogy.me.

Sad News

By now, many of you have heard of the passing of Marcus Clemons, husband of our beloved secretary Charlene Clemons. As Charlene recently wrote: "As many of you already have heard I lost my husband, Marcus, on March 13th. He achieved his goal of living to be 86 and died on his birthday. To say the past couple weeks have been a bit rough is an understatement. Still, I have been surrounded by friends and family with lots of love and support and that has helped. Marcus had an early interest in DNA testing after hearing Dr. Thomas Rodrick talk to the genealogy society and had both the autosomal and Y tests done three years ago. He was lucky enough to find one third cousin once removed and that connection cleared up the brick wall of his mother's paternal line."

We all send our love and condolences to Charlene who has been the backbone of this organization for the past 30 years.

From the President: Ralph Harris

IT'S SPRING! Warmer weather ahead! I'm so ready for 70 degrees. Time to start thinking of planting the garden and mowing the lawn, after hopefully the last nor'easter of the season. With longer days, now we can catch up on getting outside and getting our to-do list in genealogy done. Did you make a genealogy resolution to complete this year? If not, you should select a project to complete: visit cemeteries, organize photos and research notes, whatever needs doing.

"Never Give Up!" What an awesome and educational lecture about the orphanages in Canada by Mary Gibouleau at the March meeting. The members also approved some by-law changes recommended by the Board of Directors. We also made plans for a county-wide conference on digitizing and preserving records that our newsletter editor, Wayne Smith, is organizing for June 16.

Do you know of an internet research site that has been particularly helpful to you? If so, send it in to the newsletter editor (wayne@mrlanguage.com) or to me (cvfd4208@msn.com) so we can share it with the rest of the group.

Do you have a big/small project or something you would like help with? Bring it up for discussion at the next meeting. There could be a member there who is able to help you.

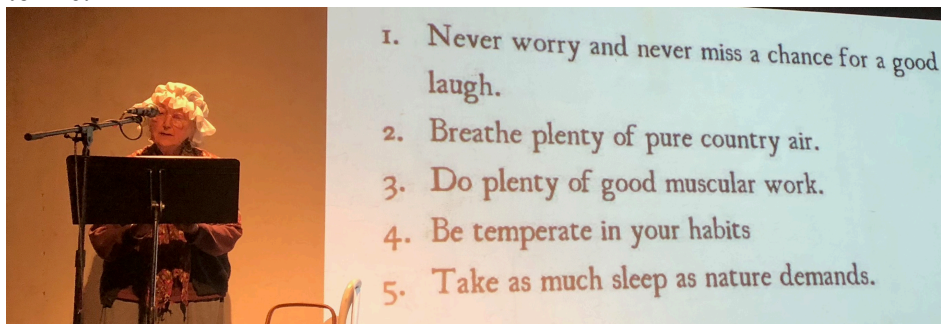

Do you have an article or experience you would like to share? Write up your article for the newsletter. Your experience or information might help others. Maybe there is an upcoming event on history or genealogy that you would like the rest of the members to know about. This is a members newsletter. Let's make it what you would like it to be.

Have a great spring!

Stonington - "Gone But Not Forgotten"

Your newsletter editor was in attendance on Thursday evening, March 15, at the Stonington Opera House for a presentation co-sponsored by the Stonington Public Library and the Deer Isle-Stonington Historical Society. Entitled "Gone But Not Forgotten," the presentation brought to life a number of Stonington's famous (and infamous) citizens ranging from Salome Sellers whose life spanned three centuries (1800-1908), to Benjamin Lake Noyes (1870-1945) who compiled 43 volumes of genealogical information about families on "the island," to an unforgettable performance by Bob Burke as Bert Dow, the retired fisherman who did odd jobs for everyone. Having attended this performance, I feel as if I knew each of these individuals from Stonington's past.

Congratulations and thanks to the people of Stonington for bringing these wonderful individuals to life.

Cherie Mason, as Salome Sellers, passing on Salome's secrets for a long happy life

MGS Spring Writing Workshop

9:00am to 4:00pm, Saturday, April 21, 2018

Elks Lodge, 397 Civic Center Drive, Augusta, ME 04330

How do genealogists answer that age-old question: What do I do with all the research I have accumulated? The simple answer is:

Write it up, Publish it, and Make Your Family Proud.

If you don't, rest assured, your heirs won't either!

This workshop, led by Joseph C. Anderson, FASG, editor of The Maine Genealogist, will cover the steps to turn your yellowing, dusty files into the printed word. The morning session will delve into a range of topics, including:

- Defining the writing project
- Assembling your research notes
- Using writing as a research tool
- Compiling a resource and style sheet
- Maximizing the capabilities of your word processor
- Exploring ways to make your writing come alive
- Making your work look good
- Choosing a publisher to fit your project and budget.

The afternoon session will focus on how to write for a genealogical periodical and include a presentation by MGS's Membership Secretary, Deb Nowers, on how family heirlooms inspired her to write about her ancestors. Along the way, you will learn many of the tricks and tools that professional writers use to make the writing process simpler. Wrapping up, there will be a session covering illustrations, indexes and bibliographies, copyright considerations, and the printing process.

Joseph C. Anderson II, FASG, is the editor of The Maine Genealogist, co-editor of The American Genealogist, consulting editor of Vermont Genealogy, and editor of MGS's Maine Families in 1790 project. He has authored or edited eighteen books on various genealogical subjects and contributed dozens of articles to genealogical journals. In 2000 he was appointed a Fellow of the American Society of Genealogists.

Seeking Transcribers of Vital Records

by Marlene A. Groves, MGS Newsletter Editor

Interested in seeing the vital records of your town published? Or, perhaps those of your ancestors' home town? There is no better time than now to "adopt" a town and see your name as a compiler on one of our MGS Special Publications. If you feel unsure how to go about this, contact someone in the Society who has had their project published. There is no cost on your end – MGS pays for all publication expenses and you receive a copy of the finished book along with the town office, with your name printed on the book as compiler. We have a brochure which helps to explain the procedure. Most towns now have their original record volumes available to view free on the FamilySearch.org website. These images are in many cases as easy to read as the original records. Check out the image to the right (from the Durham microfilm) to see how legible many can be. The clerks' handwriting can on occasion be a little challenging, but it does not take long to become acquainted with the various clerks' writing. Sometimes you may even locate in the town office some original record volumes which were never microfilmed, making for an even more valuable project to researchers everywhere.

Taken by Carol McCoy from the microfilmed records of the town of Durham, Maine found on the FamilySearch.org website.

If you are wondering just what town might make a good project for transcription and ultimate publication, contact me, Marlene A. Groves, at magroves1@myfairpoint.net or any member of the MGS Board of Directors. Check the MGS website (www.maineroots.org) for Board members and their email addresses. They are especially interested in some of the counties which have few published records. They will be glad to help you get started and even help with some of the formatting problems you may encounter along the way.

So, don't be afraid to give it a try. All of us who have completed these projects were beginners at one time. Even cellist Yo Yo Ma had to learn his scales and practice diligently at first! You may find, as I have many times, a project can actually turn out to be fun and interesting as well.

Internet Research Sites - from Ralph Harris:

1771 Massachusetts Tax Inventory

The collection of data at this site contains the names and descriptions of the taxable property of nearly 38,000 individuals who resided in 152 Massachusetts towns in 1771. Data includes enumerations of the type and value of real estate and buildings, as well as tabulation of livestock and farm commodities produced.

This on-line version allows you to browse the data by selecting items to view and drill down through totals for counties and town to the holding of individual taxpayers. An interactive map helps you locate town and counties in the state. The map is based upon a map of Massachusetts drawn in 1792. You may visit the site at:

<http://sites.fas.harvard.edu/~hsb41/masstax/masstax.cgi>

Facebook

I realize that some do not want to be involved with Facebook for various reasons. I suggest you consider it as another research tool. It is possible to be on Facebook but avoid a lot of the social interaction with "friends," etc. and use it only as a genealogical tool. There are several pages and groups devoted to genealogical interests. These can be dedicated to specific topics, such as The Organized Genealogist, Technology for Genealogists, Social Media for Genealogy, or specific areas: New Brunswick Genealogy, Maine Genealogy – or specific families – Robichaud & Acadian/Cajun Family Genealogy. In addition, many genealogical and historic societies have Facebook pages. All of these provide a great opportunity to ask questions of a targeted audience.

There is a "Genealogy on Facebook List" available at the following address:

<http://socialmediagenealogy.com/genealogy-on-facebook-list/>

The list is 337 pages long, so you can see there are a LOT of possible places to connect on Facebook.
